“Don’t Finish School”

Rabbi Dan Selsberg

It’s hard to know what is more surprising—that adults are asking themselves if they’re smarter than a fifth grader, or that there are so many people willing to go on TV to find out. Are You Smarter Than A Fifth Grader? is now a staple of TV, and Are You Smarter Than A Canadian Fifth Grader? puts our great land among the more than three dozen countries that have versions of the show (though, properly, here it should be a Grade Fiver). On the show (full confession: I’ve never sat through a full episode), contestants try to answer questions that grade school students are expected to know, occasionally turning to real live fifth graders for help. Part of the joy of the show is discovering that the grownups, be they engineers, high school teachers, or accountants, fail, while the fifth graders succeed. The losing contestants are then made to state their name, occupation, and the phrase “...and I am not smarter than a fifth grader!” For our society, it’s probably safe to say this is a warning sign.

There’s a Jewish version of this game you can play, called “Are you smarter than a Bar/Bat Mitzvah kid?” and my guess is each of you knows the answer to that question. All too often, we no longer know what we tell our youth is essential knowledge. Sad as it is that many aren’t smarter than fifth graders, and sad as it is that so many of us have forgotten what we knew at age 13, the avoidable tragedy is sending the message to young people that knowledge isn’t important for adults. We’re inadvertently teaching them that learning is not a life-long endeavor, that knowledge is something that you merely acquire in order to achieve a goal, like a diploma or a bat mitzvah ceremony. Then, you can forget all that stuff. Make no mistake about it, when we let our minds atrophy, we are teaching a powerful lesson to the next generation, to the rest of the community, and to ourselves.

I’ll take this opportunity to highlight our adult education offerings this winter at Beth Jacob Synagogue. Far from the confines of fifth grade, we delve into issues and topics relevant to our world, and explore insights from the Jewish tradition along the way. We use primary sources, so you can experience your heritage without a filter. This year, I’ll lead an exploration of the Jewish tradition of Social Justice on Tuesday nights (in parallel classes, the same material is taught alternating weeks in sessions at shul and again in private homes), and will continue our Sunday morning Ethics discussions twice a month. The Soul, Body, and Mind Series has already begun with expert guest speakers addressing hot-button issues from across the community, and adult Hebrew education will begin with our energetic new education director, Aviva Hermannoff. And we’ll resume starting Shabbat morning services with an in-depth study of what our prayers mean, and what they can mean to us. And the cantor is always ready to help you (re-)learn what’s been lost since you stepped off the bima that bar mitzvah morning.

If you feel you’re not Jewishly smarter than a fifth grader, or a 13 year old, we can help you with that. But there’s a more important matter that game shows don’t test, and that’s how wise we are. That’s harder to measure, and that’s something that only comes with experience, prayer, study, and reflection. This winter, make a point of spending enough time in the Beth Jacob community doing the things that increase our wisdom. It sends a strong message, not just to our youth, but to other adults, and to ourselves. We come from a tradition that has long prized the achievement of knowledge and wisdom. I look forward to joining you in bringing that tradition up to date.

From your co-presidents

Dear Chevre,

We want to take this opportunity to let you know how much we enjoyed sharing the High Holy days with all of you. The atmosphere in shul was exceptionally warm and uplifting and we were delighted to hear all the expressions of support and encouragement that we received from so many of you. The seamless running of High Holiday services depends on a large number of dedicated congregants, and we feel truly blessed to be part of this the Beth Jacob family.

Wendy Schneider & John Levy

In response to some of the questions we’ve heard regarding the “Shul within the Shul” campaign, we’ve included in this issue a Frequently Asked Question section that we hope will provide some answers. Should you have a question for us that does not appear here, please let us know and we will be happy to address it or, as is usually the case, whenever you see us, come and talk to us and let us know what you think.

The momentum continues to build and we look forward to you joining us in ensuring our success.

John and Wendy

There are so many new and exciting things happening at She’arim Beth Jacob Hebrew School. We began the year learning about the different mitzvot pertaining to the holidays. Students received a booklet for each holiday with exercises and fun games. We ate apples dipped in honey, read holiday books in the library, sang Hebrew songs from YouTube and created beautiful artwork. We had a special day in the sukkah with pizza and goodies as the Rabbi explained different halachot regarding the Sukkah.

Aviva Hermannoff

In addition, the students are engaged in serious study of Torah through lively discussions, role playing, midrashim and games. In Israel studies the students are learning about the geography of Israel, including its topography, bodies of waters, and its borders. The students are learning to construct their own maps of Israel. Tefila is another subject that is taught in a fun and engaging way. Students are taught words that appear often and learn to apply their knowledge in different prayers. Jewish Geography taught by Rabbi Selsberg provides the students with an excellent opportunity to get familiar with the siddur and ask questions about things they were always curious about regarding the prayers.

The school is participating in a community-wide event—video taping greetings from Hamilton Jewish schools that will be sent to Israel to the students of Shechafim, a school for learning disabled children in Northern Israel.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Natalie Sobel for co-leading the very successful High Holiday family services and all the families and children who participated so nicely—Yishar Kochachem!

Last but not least, our new high school program, B’Yachad was quite the success! We had 13 students both from Beth Jacob and Anshe Sholom and the students seemed happy and interested in the topics discussed.

I look forward to a fruitful year with your children,

Shana Tova!

'Shul within the Shul' Campaign

Many of our congregants have approached Board members with questions about our 'Shul within the Shul' campaign. Below you will find some of the most frequently asked questions, which we would like to take the opportunity to answer.

'Shul within the Shul' FAQ's

It is fine to do this cosmetic stuff but what about the physical plant?

When doing any renovation, what you don't see is just as important as what you do see. The plans address some of the physical plant needs of the shul. In building the new sanctuary, we will address things such as making the area energy efficient – appropriate heating and cooling for the area, new windows, and energy efficient lighting are just some of the things that will be incorporated. Efficiency is also part of the washroom design – things like high efficiency toilets and lighting. With our campaign goal of $3 million we cannot address absolutely everything. But we can make a good start.

Is there any plan to maybe drop the ceiling in the main sanctuary about 10 feet so there is less space to air condition?

There are no plans to do this at this time. The expense involved simply isn't in the budget. This does not mean that energy efficiency is not top of mind. We expect to save costs in two ways. One is by closing off the main sanctuary most of the time. By having a separate heating and cooling unit for the new sanctuary, we will be able to "close off" the main sanctuary most of the time. We won't have to heat it to a normal level nor cool it regularly. As well, when we are using the main sanctuary, the high efficiency lighting will help reduce our electricity consumption.

Why is the ark from the current chapel not being used?

The ark from the current chapel is lovely and has a lot of historical significance. However, the style of ark is completely different from the new sanctuary. We want to build a new, effervescent, welcoming space. Something that is complete different and welcoming for all. Our architect, Les Klein, felt that making the ark part of the whole style and feel of the sanctuary is how best to accomplish this welcoming feeling.

What will happen to the current chapel?

At this time, no decisions have been made about the current chapel. There has been talk of making it into a meeting room, or opening it up to library to make that space larger. If you have suggestions, we would love to hear them.

Will the marble structure in the entranceway remain?

Honouring the past contributions of members is very important. We are already discussing how to incorporate the existing plaques in the shul into a new, permanent donor recognition wall. As for the marble sculpture, we will find a place within the shul that will maintain the significance and integrity of the piece.

Adult Education

Classes with Rabbi Selsberg

Walking with Social Justice:

When asked about what Judaism means to them, many modern Jews talk about ethics first. Ethics are central to the Torah, to the Prophets, and to the Jewish tradition ever since. But what does the tradition truly say? We'll look at what, over the millennia, how our holy texts address central issues in our society. We will meet every other week, dividing our time between active small-group learning and class discussions. Consistent with traditional Jewish learning, you'll talk out the meaning of texts with partners. We will confront the core messages of Judaism. No holding back. No hiding.

Suburban Torah: For our classes in and around the holy city of Dundas, as in the past, we need volunteers to host! Our Dundas sessions allow a greater number of people to share in Jewish learning, close to home. Hosts do not need to provide anything but space in the living room or dining room. No one will inspect your kitchen for kashrut nor your shelves for dust. Please contact the Beth Jacob office to inquire about open dates. Tuesdays, at private homes: 7:30-9:00 pm on Nov 18, Dec 9, Jan 13, Jan 27, Feb. 10, Feb 24, Mar 24, Apr 25, May 5, May 19, June 2; Tuesday nights at Shul: Nov 25, Dec 16, Jan 6, Jan 20, Feb 3, Feb 17, Mar 3, Mar 17, Mar 31, Apr 28, May 12, May 26

Sodot Ha-Siddur: Secrets of the Prayerbook

A step-by-step, in-depth, drop-in study of how we pray

Lost in prayer, but not in a good way? Join a discussion of the who, what, why and how of the Shabbat morning service. We'll talk about what our prayers mean, and what they can mean to us. It's your tradition... it's no secret. Shabbat mornings at 9:00 am beginning Nov 15

A Code of Jewish Ethics:

In philosophy class, one can ask, "Why am I here?" In Judasim, we ask, "What am I supposed to do, now that I'm here?" We'll study and discuss everyday relations between people, and the sometimes comforting, sometimes surprising insights the Jewish tradition offers. We'll continue to use primary texts from the wonderful new book, You Shall Be Holy: A Code of Jewish Ethics, Vol. 1 by Rabbi Joseph Telushkin. Sunday mornings, with breakfast (Breakfast is $5, learning is free. Purchasing the book is not necessary, but encouraged: available at the Little Shop of Horas, online, and at local booksellers.) 9:45 am on Sundays, Nov 30, Dec 14, Jan 4, Jan 18, Feb 1, Feb 15, Mar 1, Mar 15, Apr 19, May 3 & May 17.

OUT OF THE COLD

Hamilton Out of the Cold is a program which addresses local poverty by feeding and sheltering the needy and homeless during the winter months. Returning and new volunteers bring hope and justice to those we serve. From a Jewish perspective, there is a great sense of satisfaction seeing how fulfilled, spiritually and physically, our tremendously thankful guests are as they leave.

There are so many ways to help.

- Three new security men for the 7pm-10pm and 10pm to midnight shifts are still needed. (Strong coffee and munchies are available!)
- You can feed one guest for the season by making a $75 donation or
- $300 will sponsor one of our delicious Tuesday night dinners. If you would like, come with your group or family to serve it.
- Gloves, hats, socks (Clean, new or gently used)
- toiletries
- non-perishable food items

We expect that the number of our dinner guests will be at an all-time high this winter. Our yearly donation from a local food bank sadly has been cancelled due to their near empty shelves. The always generous fruit and vegetable donation from Fortinos Main West is now being shared with another agency. Food prices have risen. Please call Cindy Richter (905)648-8030 or Joanne Manishen (905)637-9026 to contribute in your own very special way, with our thanks!

THANK YOU

- to Larry Rosenberg & Harold Goldblatt & their wonderful lottery committee for organizing another great fundraiser.
- Natalie Sobel & Aviva Hermannoff, for organizing outstanding High Holiday Family Services.

Barry Shainbaum

A SEARCH FOR SELF... FINDING YOUR SOUL THROUGH SUFFERING

Barry Shainbaum is many things, a celebrated photographer, a broadcaster, an author ... and a true survivor. But first and foremost, he is an inspirational speaker. Drawing on lessons learned from his personal struggles, Barry will share with his audience how he found his soul through suffering and spiritual evolution. He brings his listeners hope and inspiration, motivating them to persevere against all odds in order to overcome adversity, and to reach for their personal goals and dreams.

From his late teens, Barry Shainbaum was afflicted with mental illness. By the grace of God, and a lot of hard work and suffering, he was cured of the illness nearly 20 years ago. Today, at age 56, Barry has beaten bipolar disorder, runs a multi-faceted communications business, and is also the author of an inspirational photography book, "Hope and Heroes."

Dr. Lawrence Hart

DEBUNKING THE MYTH OF ISRAEL AS AN APARTHEID REGIME

'Israeli Apartheid' has replaced 'Zionism is Racism' as the allegation of choice for those wishing to delegitimize Israel. Dr. Hart argues that the linkage has no basis in fact and should be seen for what it is: a spurious accusation that seeks to isolate and criminalize the Jewish state and its people. Dr. Hart grew up in South Africa under the Apartheid regime. In his presentation he will describe what true apartheid is, and what it is not. He will offer suggestions on how to counter the rhetoric of 'Israeli Apartheid.'

Dr. Lawrence Hart is associate professor of medicine at McMaster University and staff rheumatologist at St. Joseph's Health Care and Hamilton Health Sciences. He chairs the Jewish Faculty Association at McMaster and writes a monthly column for the Canadian Jewish News.
